LABOR BARGAINING, CLOSED SHOP, ARE OPPOSED BY BOSSES; STRIKE TO BE FINAL RESORT

TWELVE FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES FOR LABOR OUTLINED BY EMPLOYERS' CLASS AT NATIONAL INDUSTRIAL CONGRESS IN WASHINGTON.

Washington, Oct. 10.—Opposition to collective bargaining and the closed shop were among 12 fundamental principles outlined by the group representing capital and presented today to the national industrial conference here. Sympathetic strikes, blacklists and boycotts were declared to be "indefensible, anti-social, and immoral."

While deploring strikes and lockouts, the principles set forth that the right of strike or lockout "should not be denied as an ultimate resort after all possible means of adjustment have been exhausted."

This right, however, should apply only to private industry. In public utility service it was proposed that the state impose such regulations as would assure continuous operation, at the same time providing adequate means for the prompt hearing and adjustment of complaints and disputes. Opposition to strikes of government employees also was expressed, the principles stating that the right of such employees to be heard and to secure just redress, should be "amply safeguarded."

Each industry acts for itself. For the settlement of disputes in private industry, it was proposed that each establishment be regarded as an industrial unit with adequate machinery for adjustment of misunderstandings between employees and the management. Other of the principles dealt with conditions and hours of work, wages, and the right to associate. It was declared that every association whether of employees or employers "must be equally subject to the same laws and legally answerable for its own conduct or that of its agents."

Proposals of all three groups in the conference—capital, labor, and the public—have not been presented. The committee of 15 to which all matters are first referred will have to be able to bring forward a plan of action.

Capital Enumerates Principles
The twelve principles as enunciated by the capital group follow:

1. Production should be subject to no intentional restriction of productive effort or output by either the employer or the employee to create an artificial scarcity of the product or labor in order to increase prices or wages.

2. The establishment as a productive unit should be regarded as a whole rather than the industry as a whole or any branch of it should, as far as practicable, be considered as the unit of production with that of the employer or the employee and employee. Each establishment should develop contact and full opportunity for interchange of views between management and men, through individual or collective dealing or a combination of both.

3. Conditions of work—it is the duty of management to make certain conditions under which work is carried on as safe and as satisfactory as the business reasonably permits. Every effort should be made to maintain steady employment of the workers both on their account and to increase efficiency.

4. Sufficient Living Wage Provided.
Wages—The worker should receive a wage sufficient to maintain him and his family in a decent living that should be satisfactory to a right-minded man in view of the prevailing cost of living. Women doing work of the same nature should receive the same rates of pay as men. The same opportunity for training and advancement should be afforded.

5. Hours of Work—The standard of the work schedule should be the week, varying as the particular requirements of individual industries may demand. Over time should, as far as possible, be avoided, and one day of rest in seven should be provided.

6. Settlement of Disputes: Each establishment should provide adequate means for the settlement of all questions of the labor union and the settlement of all disputes, but there should be no improper limitation or impairment of the right of the labor union or of its essential function of judgment and direction.

7. Right to Associate: The association of men, whether of employers, employees or others, for collective action or dealing, confers no authority and no right of compulsion on those who do not desire to act or deal with them, as an association. Arbitrary use of force or coercion or their consent is an infringement of personal liberty and a menace to the institutions of a free people.

8. Responsibility of Associations: Every association, whether of employers or employees, must be equally subject to public authority and legal control in its own conduct or that of its agents.

9. Freedom of Contract: With the right to associate recognized, the fundamental principle of individual freedom demands that every person be free to engage in any lawful occupation or service as an employer or employee, and to secure in the continuity and rewards of his effort.

10. The open shop: The principles of individual liberty and freedom of contract on which our institutions are fundamentally based require that there should be no interference with the "open shop." While fair argument and persuasion are permissible, coercive methods aimed at turning the "open shop" into a "closed shop" or "closed non-union shop" should not be tolerated. No employer should be required to deal with any group of men who are not his employees or chosen by and from among them.

11. The right to strike or lockout: In the settlement of disputes, the principle that should govern is that the right to strike or lockout, a sharp distinction should be drawn between the employment relations in the field (a) of the private industry, (b) of the public utility service, and (c) of government employment, federal, state, or municipal.

ENGLAND IS NOW FACED BY WAGE DEMANDS OF MINERS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Oct. 9.—From one labor difficulty the labor passes to another. No sooner was a measure of miners' wages crisis surmounted than the miners' demand for the nationalization of mines confronts the cabinet. Premier Lloyd-George informed a deputation yesterday that the government was unable to adopt the proposals made by the coal commission headed by Sir John Sankey, who is greatly dissatisfied. Frank Hodgson, secretary of the Miners' Federation, said that the "government's attitude" had had created a grave situation.

A feature of the addresses made by members of the deputation to Mr. Lloyd-George was the complete absence of bluster or violent language. Their statements were intended to show by reasoned argument that the interests of the community and also that the miners were supported in their demand by the whole body of trade unionists throughout the country.

It is becoming increasingly evident that apart from arguments claiming that nationalization would be a benefit to the community there is a strong feeling among workers that the present system of private ownership is unjust to the miners. It is not contended that the present agitation, if it secures its immediate aim, will not stop at mines.

"The nationalization of mines," says the Herald labor organ, "is the question immediate at issue, but it is of course a precursor to a complete policy of nationalization of industry. Here is the battle joined."

On neither side is there any doubt that the fight will be sharp. The Herald, recognizing this, says: "The possessing class, the class which lives on labor of others, has every right to take effect in the market from nothing in an attempt to frustrate the movement."

Representing the anti-nationalization side, the Herald does not expect the miners to be converted from their present opinion, although it sees some little hope in the appeal to the miners' sense of justice.

The prospect is the reverse of attractive. It means renewed trouble, anxiety and unrest, and that at a time when the nation can least afford it. It is understood the special trades union congress which will consider Premier Lloyd-George's reply to the deputation yesterday will convene October 22.

KENNEDY'S ANSWER IS FILED IN COURT

The defendant's answer in the $2,000 slander suit brought by Daniel W. Briggs against John E. Kennedy, member of the fire and police commission, was filed in circuit court yesterday. The answer was filed in the name of Kennedy and the costs and disbursements of the action.

The defendant denies saying of Briggs that he was a "drunkard." He was out at South Janesville, showed his star and demanded beer. He threw beer bottles. He was thrown out of Oliver Grant's saloon.

He further states that any statements he made about Briggs were made with the malice and only in the duties of his position as member of the fire and police commission to persons entitled to ask and receive answers to any charges of damages and the costs and disbursements of the action.

SEN. NELSON PLEADS FOR LASTING PEACE; SUPPORTS LEAGUE

DECLARES HE CANNOT SYMPATHIZE WITH OPPONENTS OF TREATY.

DENOUNCES SCARE

Says Dangers From England and Japan Painted in Lurid Colors.

Washington, Oct. 9.—Senator Nelson, republican, of Minnesota, pleading in the senate today for a lasting peace, declared he could not sympathize with the sentiment of league of nations opponents that would have this country crawl into a closed shell with no other label than the Monroe Doctrine.

"Statesmanship which is oblivious to the importance of providing of all reasonable methods for the recurrence of war," said Senator Nelson, "and insists on a policy of isolationism, is short-sighted and lacks a world's vision. It overlooks the fact that a world's peace, and that such a peace should be of a permanent character."

The senator charged that when all other arguments against the peace treaty failed those who openly or covertly desired to defeat it resorted to a scare about England and Japan, and paint in lurid colors the threatening dangers from them.

This was the favorite policy, he said, adopted by those who during the war sympathized with the enemy.

There was a time not long ago, the Minnesota senator declared, when the United States sent warships to chastise Barbary pirates without even a declaration of war, while now, when still technically at war, we grow nervous over the landing of a few American marines in a small part of the Dalmatian coast. "This is a ridiculous policy," he said, "like the greater nervousness manifested to ward England and Japan."

England's Aid Forgotten
Some people seemed to forget, when Senator Nelson argued in opposition to the peace treaty, that England had not entered the war as promptly as she did, Belgium and France would not have been conquered.

"As to Shantung, while I am clear that it should be restored to China, and I believe it will be, the senator said, he remembered that except for the war, Germany would have retained her hold on Shantung and, as between her and Japan, I cannot see why any of us should prefer Germany."

"The United States should co-operate with its allies as it did in the war," he said, "and in the future, maintaining the blessings of a permanent peace, as necessary and essential for the prosperity and well being of our country as any other country on the face of the earth."

SCHOOL PUPILS WILL NOT GET GRENADES

Hand grenades will not be given out to the school children of this city who complied with the thrift movement which was introduced into the schools last June, according to the announcement made this morning by E. H. Taust, city superintendent.

Through the seventh federal banking district, the announcement was made last June that all school children under 16 years, who during the summer saved $5, and those over 15 years who saved $10, would be given a hand grenade which was used during the world war, and which could be used by the children as banks.

"For the first time in my experience, the government has fallen down on a promise to children," said Mr. Taust.

I am sorry to make the announcement that the children carried out their part of the bargain but the government failed to carry its part. Many teachers, parents, and children have inquired about the grenades. I wrote to Milwaukee about the matter but received no satisfactory answer. The following letter I received today:

"We are sorry to inform you that the entire grenade bank proposition is off."

"The war department has forbidden the distribution of these grenades for a good reason which cannot be made public at this time."

This week's four-act vaudeville program at the Apollo theatre is on a par with those of the last two weeks which were of an unusually high class. The opening show last evening was played to a packed house.

The feature act is that put on by Carlos Douth, versatile singer and impersonator. Singing in three registers, soprano, tenor and bass, he impersonates several of the famous men and women vocalists of the show last evening.

Rivalling Douth's act for high class entertainment is the program of the famous G. L. C. members gave last evening after the business meeting, which was held at the west side I. O. O. F. hall. Lights' orchestra furnished the music.

Rural School News

Supervising teachers visited schools in Beloit Thursday. Schools in Johnson are being visited today.

The October educational bulletin is in the hands of the printers and will be ready for distribution next week.

Superintendent O. D. Antisdel has announced that all rural schools are expected to organize their Junior Red Cross societies at once. The society this year will have for its motto "To enlist children in the service of suffering in local and devastated countries; to secure for American children those habits of the mind which grow out of unselfish service; to lay a foundation of mutual understanding which will help to maintain perpetual peace."

A paper containing junior Red Cross news will be mailed to each rural teacher in the county. No individual fee is to be taken up in the schools this year. Under the new system the money for organizing will be raised by entertainments, or by money being placed from time to time in a box kept for that purpose by the children.

William F. Huffman, Beloit, has purchased the Daily Leader, Grand Rapids, from J. F. Cooley, who established it five years ago. It is the only daily newspaper in Wood County.

Mr. Huffman has been engaged in editorial and advertising work on various newspapers for several years. He served seven months overseas with an ambulance unit, enlisting in 1917. He was awarded the Croix de guerre. He returned to this country in December, 1917 and enlisted at Camp Grant, later going to Camp Taylor, Ky., where he was commissioned second lieutenant in September, 1918.

HOPE IN CONFERENCE

Samuel Gompers' proposal that the steel strike be arbitrated is a step in the right direction toward getting somewhere in the settlement not only of the steel strike but in establishing some method of quieting the unrest which has cropped up in every section of the United States in the last few months. Coming from the president of the American Federation of Labor, and before the labor conference, it lends encouragement to the belief that our American workmen are striving to be fair in their efforts to obtain an adjustment of conditions arising from the high cost of living.

Arbitration of labor difficulties have in the past proved successful in many cases, because the opposing parties have been made to see the claims of the other side with much more clearness when seated around the arbitration table.

If the steel strike can be settled by both parties to the controversy with little delay to industrial activities, the direct effect upon the general public will be immeasurably valuable.

The suggestion of Mr. Gompers made at the labor conference also brings hope that the meeting of representatives of capital, labor and the public will bring about a definite program which will serve to advantage in the future.

It is the belief of the more steady minds of the country, that the crest of the wave of unrest has been reached and that in a few months there will be a general inclination to settle back into a conservative groove, thereby allowing every one to reap the fruits of his labor and at the same time show more consideration for the other fellow.

Radicalism is on the wane and the hopes of patriotic citizens who have had to bear the brunt of the industrial unrest have been revived. The attempt to strengthen any bolshevik movement has been met with determined resistance and the propagandists who threatened for a time to gain control of certain elements must feel discouraged.

WILL THE MIDDLE CLASS ORGANIZE?

Vice-President Marshall, in an article published in the New York Times, says that the great unorganized middle class is bound to be heard from if conditions of living get too hard for them. Professional and business men, farmers, clerks, stenographers, and other office workers, teachers, ministers—all are affected by rising costs, and they haven't any unions to help them.

Mr. Marshall believes that members of the middle class will rise in their might if present inequities continue. "Unless the clamor for special legislation to enforce individual or class rights ceases," they will say, "we too are going to be a class demanding to be heard and cared for."

If the unorganized masses should really reach the point where they felt it necessary to do so, they could form an association that would outnumber considerably all of the labor organizations.

Already steps have been taken in England, as a result of the railroad strike. In one town in the south of England, physicians declined to serve the men who had ceased to serve the public.

The American middle-class is as good natured as it is long-suffering, and it is safe to make the prediction that no one will do any large-scale organizing among such people until the provocation is very great. The country is likely to steady down and get to work on a sane and sober basis within a few months, thus sparing the need of a defensive organization. But should actual need arise, let no one doubt the will and strength of purpose that would be found ready.

THE CRANBERRY CROP

The production of cranberries in 1919 for the United States is estimated at 540,000 barrels, based on October 1 conditions, according to a report by Joseph A. Becker of the Wisconsin Cooperative Crop Reporting Service. The forecast on September 1 was 537,000 barrels and production in 1918, 550,100 barrels.

Practically the entire cranberry crop of the country is produced in the three states of Massachusetts, New Jersey, and Wisconsin. The Massachusetts crop is estimated at 78 percent of a full crop, or 360,000 barrels compared to 260,000 barrels produced last year. Average price to growers: October 1 was $7.70 per barrel (100 quarts). Harvesting will be completed by October 15th. Fruit is of good quality.

The New Jersey crop is estimated at 76 percent of normal, or a total production of 155,000 barrels. The crop has suffered no frost damage and is 50 percent harvested. Cost of picking is the highest known, running up to $1.00 per bushel. Some rot in bogs reduced the estimate since September, but greater portion of the fruit is of good quality.

Wisconsin's crop will run 97 percent of normal, with a total production of 45,000 barrels. The crop is 95 percent harvested. No frost damage reported. Pickers are being paid from 50 to 55 cents per hour. The crop is of good quality.

With the baseball season ended, the Hot Stove club will begin to make plans for its winter campaign. Joe Connors was president, the last we heard, having ousted Frank Stevens out of the job. It is rumored that a membership campaign will be put on in the near future. Regular meetings are planned for the Hotel Myers lobby.

Congress should not have much difficulty in finding that many army commissions were awarded because of political influence used by many men who obtained shoulder straps. Perhaps some of its members could throw light upon the situation if the resolution for an investigation passes.

King Albert is winning the hearts of Americans as he winds his way westward. At nearly every station along the route comes the word that "Al is a regular guy." Perhaps we may prevail upon him to become an American citizen.

Better be fixing up that coal bin you have been planning to get after. Jack Frost is hovering near, according to the weatherman. Ducks began to arrive at Lake Koshkonong last night.

Now that the world's series is over with, perhaps the United States can settle down and attend to such incidental matters as the peace treaty, high cost of liv-

JUST FOLKS

Edgar A. Guest

TO A LITTLE GIRL.
Oh, little girl with eyes of brown
And smiles that fairly light the town,
I wonder if you really know
Just why it is I love you so,
And why—with all the little girls
With shining eyes and tangled curls
That throng and dance this big world through—
Our hearts have room for only you.

Since other little girls are gay
And laugh and sing and romp in play,
And all are beautiful to see,
Why should you mean so much to me?
And why should Mother, day and night,
Make you her source of all delight,
And find always in your caress
Her greatest sum of happiness?

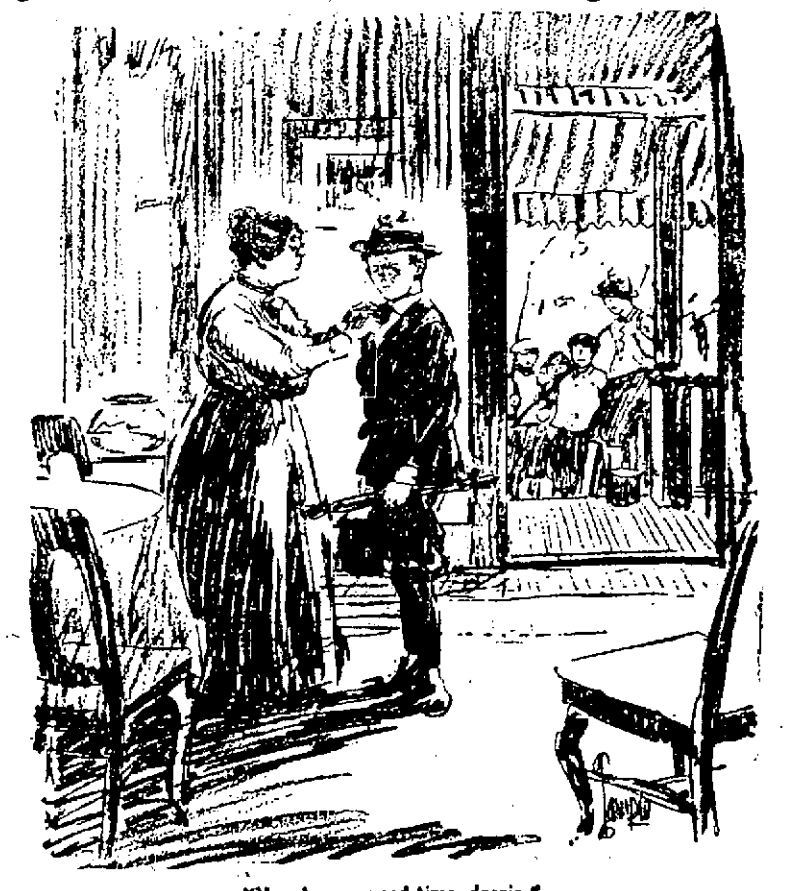

Oh, there's a reason good for this,
You laughing, little bright-eyed miss!
In all this town, with all its girls
With shining eyes and sun-kissed curls,
If we should search it through and through
We'd find not one so fair as you;
And none, however fair of face,
Within our hearts could take your place.

For one glad day not long ago,
God sent you down to us below
And said that you were out to keep,
To guard awake and watch asleep;
And ever since the day you came
No other child has seemed the same,
No other smiles are quite so fair
As those which happily you wear.

We seem to live from day to day
To hear the things you have to say,
And just because God gave you, you,
We prize the little things you do.
Though God has filled this world with flowers,
We like you best because you're ours—
In our our greatest joys we know,
And that is why we love you so.

TALKING ACROSS THE SEA

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN, Director
Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 10.—Asia and America are holding a voluminous and animated conversation across the Pacific these days. They are bargaining over silks and opium and sewing machines and cotton and a thousand other things. Where they exchanged a few words five years ago they now exchange ten thousand words. Whether we love our little brown brother or not—like-wise our little yellow and tan brother—the war has thrown us into each others arms. We are doing three times as much business with Japan alone as we did before the war.

Some of this international haggling goes on by mail, some of it flies through the air by wireless, but the most important part of it crawls along the bottom of the Pacific ocean, ten thousand miles of cable, one at all. That is, it goes by cable—the Pacific cable.

For there is only one American cable across the Pacific. In addition to this there is one British-owned cable from Vancouver to Australia, and thence through the East Indies to Hong Kong. But this is rarely used by American merchants because it is roundabout and much more expensive than the direct cable.

Nine Cables Across Atlantic
There are 19 cables of the far eastern division of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, says that we must have another Pacific cable at once, or our foreign commerce will be severely crippled. He adds that one additional cable will not really take care of the increase in business, that we might as well lay two new ones at once. When the new cable is laid, he means the United States government. Most of the cables now in use, including the one Pacific cable owned by a private company, are privately owned. But private enterprise shows no tendency to lay another Pacific cable despite the fact that an enormous volume of business is being done. The government must step in, as it has done so often during the past few years. A bill providing for a government cable is now in commission to go ahead and do the work has been introduced in congress by Senator Jones of Washington.

Cable Business Grows
As showing the pressing need for this new cable, Mr. Eldridge points out that in 1913 the cables carried only a little more than half a million words from the United States to Japan; in 1918 over four million words were sent, while in 1919 the total is expected to exceed five million words. This rate of cable conversation now is increasing about 35 percent a year, and that it will probably double in the next three years. It takes at least three years to manufacture and lay a cable. If work were started immediately it would be just a little too late to catch up with the growth of business.

The government seems elected to do this work, because it is a public work, and there are some who say that all cables ought to be owned by the government anyway. During the war it was impossible for us to get messages to this country from South America except over British-owned cables. Of every important commercial message sent to this country, a duplicate was sent to the headquarters of the cable company in England. Thus the British government, and thereby British business, had a way of knowing what we were doing in the South American commercial field. In these days of much international business, keen international commerce and competition and unsettled international relations in other respects, it is important that the United States should have its private wires in all directions.

Wireless Not Secret
And nothing can take the place of the cable. Wireless is not secret. When you send a wireless message you are talking to the world at large. It is impossible to transmit confidential business in this way. And besides the cable is the wireless is to a considerable extent dependent upon atmospheric conditions.

The amount of international business that can be done by mail is steadily decreasing, too. This is chiefly because prices now fluctuate so rapidly. The prices on raw silk are a good example. Not so many years ago nearly all the transactions in that commodity could be made by mail. The strain on the Pacific cable was not as great in any case because most of the trade between Asia and America than went in a roundabout way through England and Holland, and the Atlantic cables carried a good part of it. As a result of the war most of the trade now goes direct. But, aside from that, the state of the market in silk and other goods demands daily quotations. Options are usually subject to changes of price. It sometimes happens that a message giving such an option will not reach the prospective purchaser until after time for acceptance has passed. At times trade in certain commodities has been practically suspended for considerable periods because of this inefficient service, according to Mr. Eldridge.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

ROY K. MOULTON

GETTING RICH.
When I was but a little lad
My father used to say:
"Save all the pennies that you get
And you'll be rich some day."

Now, father was a thrifty soul,
And wise among all men.
He saved his pennies and made good.
But times have changed since then.

I cannot save 'em as he did,
It is no use, I fear.
The pennies that I try to save
Go to the profligate.

STARTED RIGHT.

Various games were played and oysters were served. All report a jolly good time.—The Sturgis (Mich.) Journal.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE COSMIC URGE.
A girl seldom marries her ideal, which is one reason why there is so much unhappiness in the world. The successful poet is one who is able to earn a living at something else.

A marriage certificate should be given. "Know all men by these presents, that I, _____, do hereby certify that _____ and _____ are man and wife."

It is a wise plan in conversation to say as little as possible about nothing.

A man doesn't talk any more than a woman—he only says less. There is an unclaimed medal for a man or woman who has told a mother her baby is home. "and so like his parents."

When a woman says "Will you be my friend?" she means "I love you."

If a man gives you a lot of coal, don't expect him to strain his back carrying it upstairs.—Walter Pultizer.

RIGHT IN COOL WEATHER, TOO.

The bride wore an exquisite diamond cluster brooch, the gift of the groom, and carried a floral nosegay of the bride's roses and valley lilies. The groom wore a gold watch and chain, the gift of the bride.—The Marion (O.) Tribune.

Aristocratic relations have nothing to do with a man's real character. Cain belong to one of the first families in the Holland and when he got mad he was such a bad man that he killed half the young men in Asia.

A fellow was asking the other day how it comes that Dante could write so entertainingly about hades when he never had been there. That's easy. When Dan was a young man he ran a country newspaper for four years.

To encourage prohibition, soft drinks have jumped from 100 to 200 percent in price.

Then again, the new two-cent piece will make a noise like a quarter when dropped in the collection plate.

George Bernard Shaw says: "Why not give Christianity a trial? Well, let George start it. It should be a novel experience."

ASK US

The Gazette maintains an information bureau at Washington, D. C., under the direction of Frederic J. Haskin. Questions will be answered on any subject. Those desiring information, may write a letter to the Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau, Washington, D. C., and enclose a stamp. The letter will be answered by the bureau.

Q. What is the proper way to place an address on an envelope?

A. R.

It should be written in the following form: Frederic J. Haskin, 1435 Jay Street, D. C.

The reason for writing the address this way is that the mail may be handled more expeditiously by the postoffice department. The clerk who handles the letter through all of the stages of its journey, from the writer to the recipient, are not interested in the street address. When the address is placed as here indicated it may be ignored until it finally reaches the letter carrier.

Q. What did the peace conference at Paris cost the United States?

A. President Wilson asked for an appropriation of $27,567 for the expenses of the peace delegates and their staffs. It is estimated that the total amount will be over $1,000,000.

Q. If a man riding on a car which is moving at the rate of 40 miles an hour leaps into the air, will the car run from under him or will he come down in the same place from which he leaped?

S. E. P.

A. The car will not run from under him because his body is traveling at the same rate as the car.

Q. Is the present government of France and its president socialist?

A. M. L.

President Poincare is not a socialist, and the socialist party does not rule in France.

Q. Are the men who served in the United States merchant marine during the war entitled to the $60 bonus?

G. T.

A. The men who served in the United States merchant marine during the war are entitled to the $60 bonus.

Q. The question of giving a bonus to persons who served in the merchant marine has been referred to congress but, to date nothing has been done along this line.

CAPT. POWERS LEADS BLUE TEAM IN FIRST CONFLICT TOMORROW

With the first game of the season but a few hours away the Jamesville high school football warriors feel they are going to announce the Delta team's high bunched they will meet tomorrow afternoon at the fair grounds at 2:30.

Coach Lewis put the men through the hardest scrimmage of the season last night at the fair grounds. Twenty-two men reported for practice. This is the largest squad of material that has shown for practice in three years. All of the men are fighting for berths on the team and there is much speculation between them as to who will start the game tomorrow.

Coach Lewis gave every fellow a statement to take home to his parents to have them sign their consent for him to play football during the season. Every candidate will be given a chance to show his worth in the Delavan game slated for Coach Lewis today. He said that competition was so strong for most of the positions that it would be a difficult matter to pick the first team men.

Signal practice will be held tonight at the Fourth Ward park where the team will be given their final workout before the struggle with Delavan. Coach Lewis said that although he had a great many new players on the team he expected to wonder at the things of them and is sure that his team will bring in the bacon tomorrow.

Big Joe Garvin will undoubtedly hold down the center position with Kinney, Scanlon, Marquette, and Claxton trying for guard. Those trying for tackle are Scoble, Kober, Griddle, Bonelson and Morrick. Six are working hard for a berth on the end position: Barriago, Smith, Spillivan, Fallett, Hager, and Austin. The backfield will be composed of either Hall, a veteran of 1917's eleven, or Newman at quarter, Black, a veteran of last year's team at fullback, "Mike" Powers at one half and Tunstead or Dobson at the other half.

A mass meeting was held at the high school this afternoon to stir up enthusiasm for the fray tomorrow. All the old school youths were reviewed and the drive continued for the athletic season tickets. "Pussy" Pierce led in the cheering at the mass meeting and will also lead in the throat work at the game tomorrow.

FAIRIES BEATEN BY CUBS AT PORTAGE

Portage, Wis., Oct. 10.—Chicago Cubs' barnstormers won from Fairbanks Moose at Beloit here yesterday 5 to 3. Hendrix was wild at times, but effective in pinches. Hendrix allowed nine hits and earned four runs. Paskert, O'Parrell, Lear, Holloway and Barber drove out two-base hits. Beloit had the Cubs blanked up to the third inning. Today was Portage day at the fair with Alexander and Kilmer in the points for Chicago Cubs.

BRIGGS' COLTS ARE BEATEN IN OPENER

Briggs' Colts and the Old Timers pried off the bowling season lid at the Arcade alleys last evening before a good-sized delegation of spectators. The Old Timers showed better form and racked up a total of 2,565 pins for a 274-point victory over the Colts who made such a name for themselves in the championship race last year. The game served to show the need for practice for members of both teams, all of them passing up a number of easy spares.

MYERS

Trying to rent a house? Wonder if you will ever find a room? Doubtful if you are going to stay in Jamesville? If you are troubled by such questions don't get gray hairs worrying over them. Go to the Myers and ask Mohatma, the mysterious girl. She told Bud Fisher last night at the first night vaudeville bill being shown throughout the remainder of the week that he would get that house. But better go easy on your family troubles. She is just as liable as not to tell you will be divorced within two weeks. There was many a chance for a laugh furnished the almost household audience at last night's performance, billed for 7 but starting at 7:30. The physical culture advocate displayed remarkable muscular ability, in the Casse and Fowler act. Singing and ukeleles were added to their repertoire. Howard McNabb, billed as inimitable comedian, entertained with his line of talk, bordering at times on the verge of the taboos. Brown and Burke opened the vaudeville bill with melodious mirthmaking. They spent most of their time on the wrong side of the line of clean mirth. Singing and talking were their specialties. Some banjo playing scored a hit. A morbid movie drama of the barroom western life was sandwiched in between a "Kiss the Bride" comedy of laughter productivity and the Pathé News.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MISS THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am 22 years of age and have been engaged to a girl two years my junior for a few months. We get along famously except at dances. She dances and I don't. As far as dancing is concerned I don't object, but I promised my mother not to dance or marry a girl who did. This promise was given on account of some family trouble we had not long ago. I have asked this girl to stop and have told her of this promise. I take her to all good shows and try to make her happy in all ways. I would like your opinion of this.

UNHAPPY LOVER.
It seems to me that your mother was unreasonable about asking for your promise. Trouble can come in a thousand ways, not only through dancing. Since neither of you nor have you should let her dance, although you do not do it yourself. Otherwise you would be making her a victim of your mother's prejudices. Your own conscience should guide you in all things, therefore I cannot advise you about your promise. If your mother is still alive, explain to her that you can't keep it and be fair to the girl you love.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My father and mother are living, but my father is a confirmed drunkard and there are seven children in my family besides myself. I am 18 years old and finished high school last year. I am very anxious to go to college and take a literary or business course but haven't means to go. I don't want to work in a store, as I want to fit myself for later life with something more substantial than that. As a clerk, there is absolutely no prospect of saving enough money for an education. I am very fond of books and always considered the star pupil in history and English in school. I am inclined to be literary and believe I should succeed in work of that sort if I had the chance.

If you can give me any light as to what to do, I would be very glad. I am tired living day after day without any object in view. My father wants me to be a nurse, but to this I refuse as I know that would be a failure on my part.

AMBITIOUS.
There are great possibilities in clerking. Of course you must not be an ordinary clerk, but one who makes a study of psychology, salesmanship and advertising. There are a number of excellent books on these subjects and after very little reading you would see salesmanship in a totally different light. Aim to be the best salesman in town. Later, if you care to, you can go to some big city and work into the position of buyer.

It would be useless to take up nursing, since you have no taste for it. I firmly believe, however, that you will succeed as a saleswoman. You are enthusiastic and go about the work in the right way, studying people, reading and always working toward a goal. Education is necessary in good salesmanship, of course, and with your taste for reading and study you should be able to do much without a college course.

A READER: I will answer your question by personal letter.

MARY: You sent me a letter to your girl friend ANN by mistake. Doubtless she received the letter you intended for me.

She Married an Average Man

By ZOE BECKLEY.

It's but a little more than a week to Christmas. "Thank God!" the girls of Centerville have not yet died from my heart. Steam heat, electric "candles" for the Christmas tree and the high cost of living have discouraged my Christmas spirit. I'm happy as a lark, preparing for our first real Christmas together in our own sweet home.

As I stitch and knit and embroider the girls I am sending to those I love (and there isn't a useless gimcrack among my pile of presents) I picture what New York must look like these bustling days. Have they the Christmas spirit there? Do people visit the poor and the sick and make children happy as we in Centerville try to do?

And, oh, how I should love to see the shops that have tons of the wonderful things Centerville stores sell forth in two or three so proudly labeled "Direct from New York."

I'm trying to be economical with my presents, suiting them carefully to the persons they're for. Jim's $50 will easily cover all. But it will be so absurd to use part of that $50 to buy Jim's gift that I've decided to draw a little from my own savings bank heard that I earned before I married.

I've decided on one of those warm, light, silky, crinkly lounging gowns for Jim. He'll love it. If the night I found him in the living room—that awful night when I stole out on the stole out, sleepless and miserable, and we had the reconciliation after that horrible estrangement that lasted a week. He bathed, looked actually manly. I believe it was what touched my heart. And we must have a tree! I want to guild nuts, and string cranberries and festoon popcorn on it, and have real candles and glass "candles," and put all Jim's presents underneath, and mine, too, that I shan't open till Christmas morning!

I must drag old Jim out shopping with me tonight. The stores are open, and it will such fun to buy the tree trimmings and push through the crowds—the miniature crowds of Centerville!

I asked Jim about the shopping trip and his reply punctured my enthusiasm like a pin in a balloon. "Not on your life, madame! It takes more than a man; it takes an archangel to stand the shopping trip. I'm tired, kitten. What's the use of married life with some over Christmas any how?"

I didn't insist. I went alone, wishing and wishing and wishing my nature and Jim's were more alike. As I pushed into our biggest store, feeling rather anti-climatic and tired, I wondered if any couple is perfectly contented. Does any woman ever chance to marry a man who bubbles over things she bubbles over? Likes the same people? Enjoys the same sort of books and amusements?

Just as I was wondering I saw a girl and a man come down the store aisle having such a good time. I watched them wistfully. "There," thought I, "is just such a pair. How eagerly she looks up at him. How interested he is in her shopping! You can want to be so disagreeable!"

I long to take the girl in my arms and say: "Never mind, dear, I understand! Don't let it grieve you too much. We are in the same boat." (To be continued.)

TAN JERSEY MAKES NEW STREET FROCK

By ELOISE

It seems as if one could talk forever about the one-piece frock. It has been with us for several seasons and still it is going strong and is appearing in some new form every fashion show. It is nothing more than a one-piece frock for shopping, tours or afternoon strolls on the average.

The outfit pictured is the smartest trottin' costume which has been seen for the moderate price of $35. The navy frock is made of tan jersey embroidered in gold and silver threads. A silk cord marks the low-cut waistline and dainty neck. Gaudy collars and cuffs add a fresh touch. The frock costs $35. Tan suede gloves with brown stitching are worn which cost but $3.50. The distinctive walking oxford of brown calfskin were $14 and the tan velvet chin hat with its brown silk embroidery was $15. On a warm day midday goes countless and she wears silk hose to match her shoes, but on a brisk day she may cover up her pretty frock with a fetching coat scarf of bright woolen yarn and she will wear navy woolen hose which are very fashionable just now although they are very unbefitting to the girl with large ankles.

Black Bear Invades Farm.
Nellville—A hungry black bear invaded the farm of George Crothers, editor, and was received with a charge from a shotgun in the face. The bear was knocked down but got up and ran. Hunters got on the trail. George Frantz killed the animal. A few years ago a bear was killed in the city limits, at the cemetery, by George Rude.

A GREAT DRAWBACK
Do you have to be right? If you do, I have a deep sympathy for you.

For it is such a troublesome thing to have to be always right—it puts you in such hard corners, narrows your path so.

Take it in an argument. If you don't have to be right, you can consider what the other fellow is saying and learn something occasionally. But if you have to be right, you don't have a chance to learn anything because you are too intent on standing up for your side of the case.

Suppose you have taken some stand that turns out to be untenable. If you could be wrong, you would simply admit your mistake and yield up the stand. But if you can't be wrong, you have to stick by your stand and defend it at any cost. And quite often the cost is prohibitive—or would be to a person who considers the sacrifice of squareness and sincerity too high a price to pay for proving himself right.

A Miserable Little Loophole
I heard a man of this sort arguing with another man the other night. The man who had to be right was caught fair and square in a denial of a previous statement. Of course, he couldn't admit that he had been wrong the first time, and so he crawled out of the most miserable little loop-hole by saying, "I didn't mean exactly that." It was that perfect obvious to a third party that he hadn't meant anything of the sort. But, of course, there was no way of proving it. He chose to be wrong for the sake of being right, no one could stop him. But one could have one's opinions of him. She Didn't Want to Play Better Because—

Here's another case. "I hate to play cards with the P's," says an acquaintance. "Because they are always talking over the hand afterwards and picking out mistakes." "Don't you like to see where you could have done it differently?" I asked.

"No," she said. "I don't like to have everything I do found fault with." I happen to know these people and I know that they are not more apt to find fault with her play than their own. They are just trying to learn to play better. But she isn't, because to play better she would have to admit that she makes mistakes, and she can't admit that—because she is always right!

She Thought She Must Have Learned Something in Forty Years
"It seems to me," a woman of 60 said to me one day, "that there must be a few things I have learned in keeping house for 40 years that my daughter, who has kept house one year, doesn't know."

"Well, aren't there?" I said. "She never yet has accepted one of my suggestions," sighed the mother.

Evidently, it was more important to that daughter that she should be right than she should take advantage of 40 years of experience.

It certainly was a drawback to have to be right. How fortunate people are who do not have it, but who are ready to admit mistakes if necessary and learn to do better next time.

RECIPES FOR A DAY.
Apple Pudding—Pare six good-sized, quick-cooking apples and cut in small pieces. Lay these in a deep baking dish or pan and sprinkle sugar over them.

Make a batter of three cups flour in which two teaspoonsful baking powder have been sifted and a pinch of salt; add enough water to make very stiff batter. Spread this over apples and steam half an hour.

Serve with sweetened milk or cream.

CANNING TIME.
Peach Butter—Dip peaches in boiling water long enough to loosen the skins. Dip in cold water, peel and stone them. If peaches do not peel readily when dipped in boiling water, omit dipping and pare them with a knife. Add half as much sugar, syrup or honey as pulp and cook until thick. Pour into sterilized jars and sterilize fifteen minutes in steam.

If desired, cook the skins with water as previously directed to obtain juice for jelly or sauce.

Yellow—Eight pounds of "yellow plum" tomatoes with a fork and place in a preserving kettle, together with two cups of one lemon and one orange and seven pounds of white sugar.

Break in pieces one ounce each of mace and ginger root, and tie loosely in a bag and add to contents of kettle. Heat slowly to draw the juices and cook very gently until the tomatoes are clear. Remove from syrup carefully and boil away the syrup until thick and rich; return the fruit and when at the boiling point seal in jars.

Small red or green tomatoes may be preserved whole by this same method, also the strawberry tomatoes or ground cherries.

Another method is to cook the tomatoes in the syrup until clear, then pour out into shallow pans and let stand over night. The next day put into sterilized jars and process for 10 minutes.

TROCO

An Appetizing Combination

—Coconuts and Milk

The sweet, delicate Troco flavor and perfected texture are due to the appetizing combination of the most valued food products of Tropic and Temperate climates.

The dainty nut fat extracted from the white meat of coconuts is churned with pasteurized milk. A perfected process standardizes quality—you know every carton of Troco will be the consummation of inviting freshness.

But—with all this quality the use of Troco is an economy. Every carton saves you from 25 to 40 cents a pound.

We churn and ship Troco daily, on ice, to insure freshness. If your dealer will not frequently and keep Troco always in his ice box, it will reach you in perfect condition. In case of dissatisfaction, send his name to the Troco Nut Butter Company, Chicago.

(Distributor's Name, Address and Phone Number)

THE SHURTLEFF CO.

We are obliged to label Troco as "cream" because of old laws passed before the nut-made product was invented. But it contains no animal oils, just pure vegetable fats and pasteurized milk.

TERIBLY PROLIFIC FAMILY

Professor Nuttall, a bacteriologist who sometimes sours to higher planes of study, records an enumeration of the made of the "company" present on the head of a woman regarded as a moderately gracious host of Pediculus capitis. The guests numbered 1,994. The female of the species Pediculus cinis is up to 30 days. Mrs. Pediculus is about 16 days. The average duration of life in the Pediculus cinis is up to 30 days. Mrs. Pediculus presents the old boy with 2,000 descendants and her daughters join in the work to the tune of 113,000 more descendants in a period of 45 days. Company is the company. It takes hard holding for the f. l. comb. Where do the children get 'em? Well, children are affectionate and not at all squeamish or discriminating. They put their heads together over many a problem. In many public schools some of the children are constantly infested with lice and these children are as likely to come from well-to-do homes as from the poorer homes. QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Eating Raw Vegetables.

Will you please explain what the harm is in eating raw vegetables such as potatoes, tomatoes, carrots, turnips, peas, etc. (Mrs. J. C. J.)

ANSWER:—There is no real harm, so far as I know, in fact I think cravings for uncooked vegetables should be satisfied by eating the vegetables raw, provided the vegetables are thoroughly cleaned or washed. Because we are so often to cooked foods we should not assume that raw foods are not wholesome.

Shampoo and Dandruff.

Does washing the head every alternate day have any effect on dandruff? Do hair tonics help dandruff? What would you suggest for a very troublesome case of dandruff? (Miss Harriet)

ANSWER:—Shampoo as often as necessary to keep the scalp free of dandruff. The shampoo is only or grossly rubbed into the scalp about half a teaspoonful of this solution once or twice a day.

Salicylic acid 10 grains

Resorcinol 10 grains

(Resorcinol sometimes stains white or gray hair a yellowish color.)

If the dandruff is dry, the following formula is preferable, though more troublesome to apply.

Salicylic acid 10 grains

Precipitated sulphur 1 dram

Violet extract (scent) 10 drops

Violet extract (scent) 10 drops

Petrolatum, of each enough to make 1 ounce

This should be dispensed in a collapsible tube, and a little thoroughly rubbed into about one-fourth of the scalp systematically each night.

A shampoo every week, for a month.

No Move Made to Test Soldier Bonus Bills

Madison, Oct. 10.—Contrary to expectations, although this was motioned day in the supreme court, no move was made to start an action to test the soldiers' bonus law.

There seems to be no longer any doubt but that a suit is to be started. Just what the nature of the suit is to be has not been disclosed. It may come in the form of a taxpayer's action asking that the laws be passed upon by the court before they are administered as to the payment of money from the treasury's office.

The attorney general's office will take the position that both the educational law and the bonus law approved by the people are valid.

TUBERCULAR CATTLE FEW IN WISCONSIN

Out of 18,120 head of cattle tested between Jan. 1, 1919, in various parts of Wisconsin, a large part of which has never before been tested, only 3.74 per cent. reacted to the tuberculin test. This is compared from reports received from the bureau of animal industry on the accredited herd work in 45 different states. Wisconsin and Michigan show the lowest percentage among states which are ranked as intensive dairy states.

Owing to the fact that no funds were provided for accredited herd work in any previous legislative session, the cooperative plan was not inaugurated in the state of Wisconsin until January 1919, and it was only until the last appropriations were available that the state was in a position to meet the government's quota of men.

The veterinary division of the state department of agriculture and the bureau of animal industry expect to employ 18 to 20 men during the coming season for prosecution of this work.

Chippewa Indians to Hear Irish Chief

Madison, Oct. 10.—The Chippewa Indians are going to have an opportunity to hear Eamon De Valera, president of the Irish republic. The state officials at the capitol have received word that the Irish leader will visit the reservation Oct. 18.

De Valera speaks at the Milwaukee coliseum Oct. 17, and will go at once to Superior and thence to Reserve by automobile.

"The Indians expect to gather from the four winds for the occasion. Indian chiefs from several reservations will be present to adopt De Valera into the Chippewa tribe, the oldest and largest Indian tribe."

Bakers to Make Badger Loaf.

Milwaukee.—For the convenience of all concerned and because of the discontent manifested by both the patrons of the bakers and the manufacturers of bread, it was decided by the board of directors of the Wisconsin Association of Master Bakers to introduce at the regular yearly convention a standard of bread to be called the "Badger loaf."

The new loaf would lower the cost of production inasmuch as the bread would be called for directly at the baker's, and no deliveries made. It is not compulsory that members of the association manufacture this loaf, their action being voluntary.

PUBLIC HOLIDAY IN CINCINNATI

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Cincinnati, Oct. 10.—Hilarious Cincinnati rose this morning to celebrate as a public holiday the triumphal return of the Reds from Chicago, where they won the baseball championship of the world yesterday from the Chicago White Sox.

A proclamation calling on all citizens to observe the day as a public holiday from 8 o'clock until noon, had been issued by acting mayor Carl Jacobs and was widely observed, many business houses remaining closed. The proclamation urged all Cincinnatians to be present at Fountain Square at ten o'clock to pay homage to the world champions.

Following news of the winning of the world's series by the Cincinnati nationals, ran at flood tide last night, and while impromptu processions formed and marched through all sections of the city, representative men of affairs met at the business men's club and appointed a committee and made final arrangements for the "official celebration" of the homecoming of Manager Moran and his athletes today.

At Death's Door

"I was talking with my neighbor Mr. Webb, the other day, regarding the great trouble his stomach had given him."

He said he suffered 7 or 8 years, and had been almost at death's door a number of times from acute indigestion and bloating of gas, which seemed to shut off his heart action. He said he wouldn't have lived much longer if he hadn't taken Mr. Webb's Wonderful Remedy when he said, which made a well man of him."

It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.—Badger Drug Co.

WHITE SOX LOSE PENNANT TO REDS IN EIGHTH GAME

Chicago—The world's baseball champions for 1919 will fly from Redland field, Cincinnati, next season.

Pat Moran's athletes invaded hostile territory on Thursday and annexed the eighth and deciding game against the Chicago White Sox by a score of 10 to 5.

As expected, the game was as funny as a sack race. Nearly everything possible happened, including a comic four run rally by the athletes in the pale history. It never would have happened just as it did if the sun had not entered the lists and blinded the visiting fold.

The Sox were nine runs behind at the time.

Start With Rush

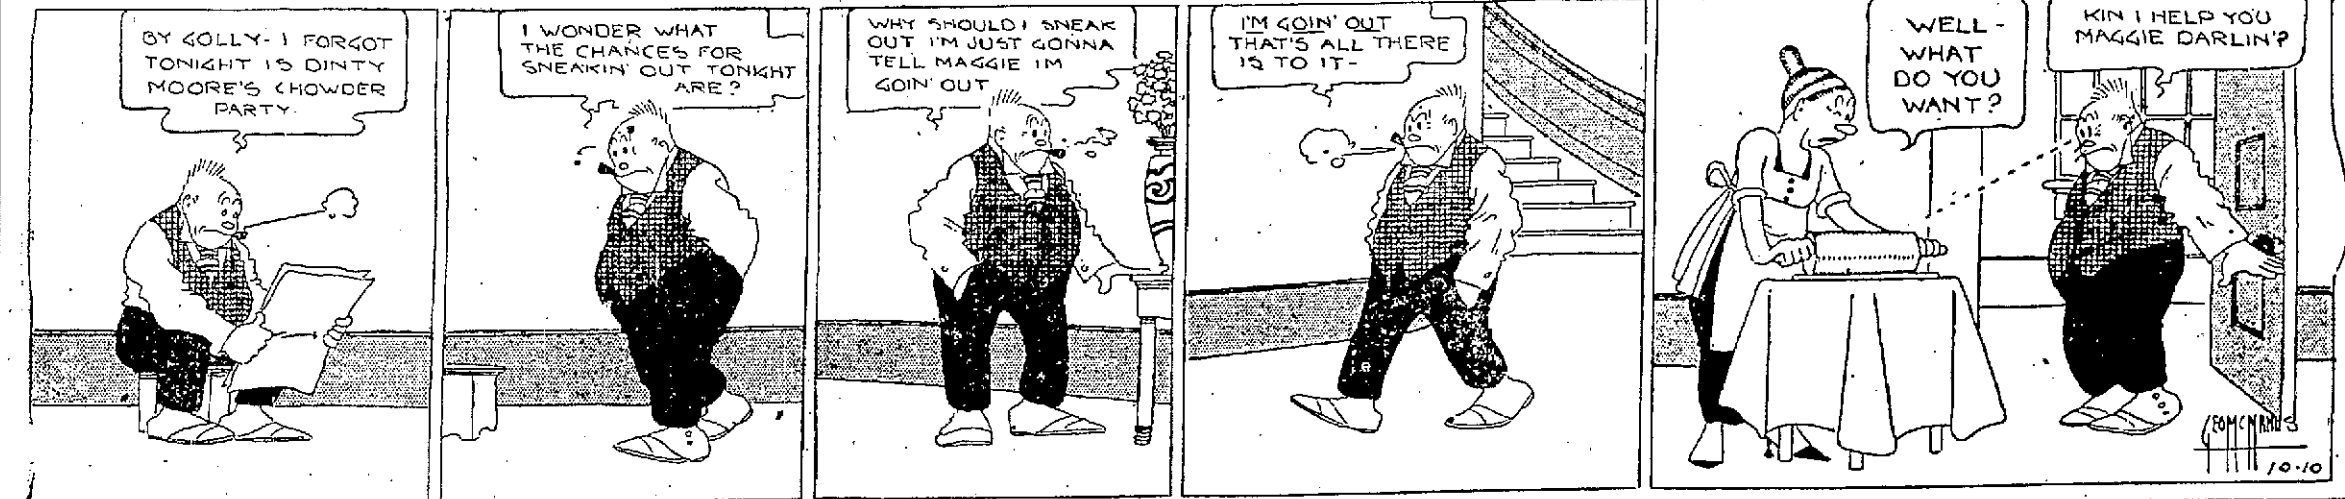

The Reds, dropping two games on their own grounds on the banks of the Ohio, permitting the Sox to get back in the running for the big emblem, started after the deciding game at the onset. They descended on Claude Williams' left handed offerings with a determination which sent him into seclusion before the third man was out, and Bill James, who hurled from the other side, was trotted out. Three runs were scored off Williams and one off James. It was the latter's first appearance in the series, and he led a terrible line until the sixth, when, with two men on the sacks, he was given the beckoning finger by Manager Gleason, and Roy Wilkinson, also a right hander, came forth to remain through the home-out.

The intruders continued their onslaught and sent three runs across the rubber. In the seventh the rangy hurler was somewhat wild and walked two men, but no runs were scored by the leaguer champions to be. In the eighth they annexed another and let it go at that. Their position was so secure that they appeared indifferent, even bored, at the Sox rally, which had the effect, largely, of merely stretching the contest out into the longest of the series, namely, two hours and twenty-seven minutes.

32,930 Fans Present

The remarkably good weather of the series was again in evidence and

BRINGING UP FATHER

32,930 persons paid to see the massacre of the local idols. The attendance for the series was 238,225 and the receipts, exclusive of war tax $722,414. Of this the players receive $260,349.70 of the amount taken in during the first five games. The winners' share is $117,157.65, which will give $5,207.01 to the participating athletes. This is more than the salaries of most of them, it is said. The Sox players will distribute twenty-four shares of $3,254.36 each.

Rath started the first inning for the Reds by popping to Risberg. Daubert took a grim swing at the ball and singled to center. It was the beginning of the end. Groh picked out another offering and sent it also into the right garden. Daubert swinging around to third. The mighty Roush declared himself in on the onslaught with a double to right scoring Daubert with the first run of the game. Groh on the throw the plate went to third.

Duncan singled to left field, scoring Groh and Roush. This series of wallpops ended Williams' career as a major league pitcher for this season. He retired to the bench and the towering James strode into the fray. He was wild and Groh walked on four bad ones. James steadied when he faced Neale and the Red right fielder struck out. Hariden sent a single to center, scoring Duncan. Home. Eller was the final out on a fly to Felsch in right.

Sox Rooters Lose Hope

The Sox started out as if they had solved Eller's delivery and intended to do what they did in Cincinnati the other day, overcome a four run lead for a victory. The hope was short lived, however. Liebold singled to left and went to third on Eddie Collins' double to left center. Weaver struck at two and missed and was informed by the umpire that he also should have struck at the third one. The runners on second and third looked weary when Weaver was called out, but perked up when Jackson grasped his bat and faced Eller. The best the slugger could do was a popup to short. Felsch struck out and those who had so often in this series seen the Sox die on bases for lack of hits at the right time lost hope.

The Reds started the second with a whirl by Rath. Daubert sent a fly to Jackson. Groh started trouble by beating out a grounder to Gandil and scored on Roush's double to center. Roush overran second and was run down between bases.

In their half Gandil lined to Daubert and Hiesberg stroked. Hariden dropped Schalk's foul and for a moment it looked as if that might mark a change in the game for on his next swing Schalk singled to left. Risberg going to second. James, however, fouled to Groh and Liebold fanned and again there were no runs for the locals. In the next inning the Reds were retired in rotation, but in their half the Sox produced the first and only home run of the series. Joe Jackson was the hero. He caught a break high fast one and dropped it cleanly into the distant right field bleachers. It counted for one run, for there were none on bases ahead of him. Felsch was retired, short to first, and for four more innings Jackson's tally alone remained to confound.

Neither side scored in the fourth, but the inning was signalized by a wonderful throw by Liebold from center which nailed Eller. The inning started by Hariden lining to Gandil and Eller got on by taking one of James' wild ones. In his anatomy Rath beat out a hit toward Collins, Eller reaching second. Daubert singled to left center and Eller attempted to score. It was on this play that Liebold made his accurate return to the plate. Groh popped to Collins.

In the fifth the Reds added another tally to their string and did it after two had been retired hit, less to the coop. Kopf bounced one past Gandil and fly down on the safe side of the foul line for a triple. Neale rose to the emergency with a single to left. Kopf scoring. Neale stole second and Risberg threw Hariden out at first.

The Reds started the sixth with Eller up and he singled through the pitcher's box. Rath walked and as James seemed to be weakening fast, he was sent to the club house. Daubert greeted Wilkinson, the new hurler, with a punt in front of the plate. Schalk had plenty of time

Chicago started such fireworks as they had in reserve in this inning. Liebold drove a liner to right which Neale captured on the dead run. Collins singled to center and Weaver doubled to right. Then both Collins and Weaver scored on Jackson's double in the same direction. Felsch popped to Daubert.

It was here that the sun joined the White Sox team. Gandil hit a long high fly to right center. Neale evidently heard the crack of the bat, but saw nothing. He shaded his eyes to pierce the blue, but never saw the ball, and it dropped thirty feet from anybody for a triple. He scored when Roush, also bothered by the glare, dropped Risberg's fly. Schalk was thrown out by Rath, terminating the rally. The Reds got a man to second in the final round, but he expired there, while the Sox, responding to yells from their friends in the stands, tried to start another rally, but nothing came of it. Murphy came to bat for Wilkinson and did not try very hard to get out of the way of a curve, which struck him on the back. Liebold sent a liner which had all the earmarks of a triple to right center.

Roush Makes Great Catch

Roush made the greatest catch of the series in capturing it. He raced at top speed across the field and fell as he grasped the ball off his shoe-tops. He turned a somersault, but came up with the ball safely in his hands. Murphy was almost at second, but was able to scramble back to first. Eddie Collins singled to center and Murphy made third on the hit.

The Reds made no attempt to prevent Collins stealing second. The game was too near over. Weaver flew out to left center. Now was the time from the local viewpoint for another homer by Jackson, but he went out easily. Rath to Daubert.

All told, the Reds accumulated sixteen hits, every player getting one or more. The Sox made ten.

Bone Grafted Onto Head.

Milwaukee—With a piece of bone and scalp grafted to his head, Carmine Chiapetti, who was wounded in the war, has returned to work. His recovery followed an operation by doctors of the Milwaukee office, United States public health and marine hospital service. Chiapetti was hit by a machine gun bullet, which struck his head at an angle, tearing a piece off the top so that the brain protruded. Since the operation he has recovered completely.

Sun Gets Into Game

In the eighth Roush got a life when hit in the back by a pitch. He was sacrificed to second by Duncan and registered on Hariden's single to left.

Chicago started such fireworks as

By George McManus.

WORLD SERIES MONEY DIVIDED; NEW RECORD SET

Corrected figures, according to the way the two clubs decided to split their share in the players' pool, were announced at the conclusion of the deciding game in the world's series. Each Cincinnati player who shares in the money will receive $5,207.01, this being the most any individual ball player gained from a world's series since the autumn classic was inaugurated.

The Reds' total share was $117,157.65. Twenty-four players were eligible to share in the coin, but by vote of the whole team three players were given half a share each, cutting the total to twenty-two and a half shares.

The total money for the White Sox was $78,104.70, and each player—splitting the pool twenty-four ways, as agreed—will receive $3,254.36.

The second teams in each of the big leagues—New York Giants and Cleveland—will receive a team total of $10,526.23. The third teams—Cubs and New York Yankees—will each split $13,017.45.

FORD'S

"Do You Still Crank Your Ford?"

- Do you still wade 'round in the mud on rainy days to get your car started?
- If you stop for a moment and kill your engine, do you still have to get out and wind her up?
- Do you think it necessary to be a slave to the crank?

Thousands of Others Have Quit--Why Not You

Thousands of other Ford owners have ended their cranking careers; they now step into their cars, USE THE UNIVERSAL STARTER and are away in less time than it now takes you to pull the priming wire on your Ford, and they don't run the risk of a broken arm or a sprained wrist.

Can Be Installed in 30 Minutes

Installation harmless to your car. Made of drop forged steel, and not a penny of upkeep in sight. A child can operate it in perfect safety. Back-firing can neither harm driver or starter, protected by our automatic release.

Don't confuse the "Universal Starter" with others you have seen for sale. This is its first appearance in your territory. You must see it demonstrated to appreciate it. At the price this starter is offered you can within a short while save the cost of Universal Starter in gasoline and oil wasted in letting your engine run. GRAIN

Chicago Review.
Chicago, Oct. 10.—Grains and a forecast of killing frost led to higher prices today for corn, notwithstanding that the bulk of the crop everywhere has been looked upon as matured and in no danger from frost.
Higher quotations on hog count somewhat as an additional element of strength. Buying, however, was not of an aggressive character. Opening prices, which ranged from 1.25 to 1.30 higher, with December 1.23 1/2 to 1.24 1/2, and May 1.23 1/2 were followed by a slight reaction. Oats hardened in value with corn. After opening a shade to 1/2c up, including December at 71 1/2c to 71 3/4c, the market scored further gains.
Provisions were firmer, owing to upturns in the hog market. Trade, though, looked volume.

Later, the market reacted, owing more or less to opinion that hunking would be stimulated by freezing temperatures. The close was unsettled,
1/4c to 1/2c lower, with December
$1.21 1/2 to $1.23 1/2 and May $1.21 1/2 to $1.21 1/2.
